Annual Carnival at School This Year Best of All

The sixth annual carnival bazaar, sponsored by the three P. T. A. groups of Lemon Grove was a success in every way. The spacious grounds were crowded to the limit, every booth completely sold out, and a horde of workers, both young and old, performing their tasks faithfully, made for the biggest event ever put on by the school. The receipts of over $1300 were very gratifying, too.

Hundreds of costumed children marched in the grand entry, led by the school band. Prizes for costumes were awarded as follows:

Lower group—funniest, Michel Massey (monkey); story book, Bonnie Jean Holtz (Red Riding Hood); original, Sharon Sanders (Old Mother Hubbard).

Band — Diane Lairsey (Martha Washington); Gary Hauft (Indian); Brian Harold (Hindu); Al Webster (Robot).

In the capacity of general chairman, William E. Vick demonstrated his ability as an organizer, coordinator and arbitrator. Showed his ability, not only to work with people, but to keep them happy while working together and with him. His co-chairman were Mrs. D. E. Davis, Mrs. Tom Ward and Mrs. M. H. Fitzgerald.

Mr. and Mrs. John Milne, custodians of the building are to be commended for their fine co-operation and patience.

The problem of booths was solved for many years to come by the liberal donation of lumber by Harry Griffen, member of the Board of Trustees, and the Ward & McGuire Lumber Co., each to the value of nearly $100. Lynn Bartholomew furnished blue prints and carpentry.

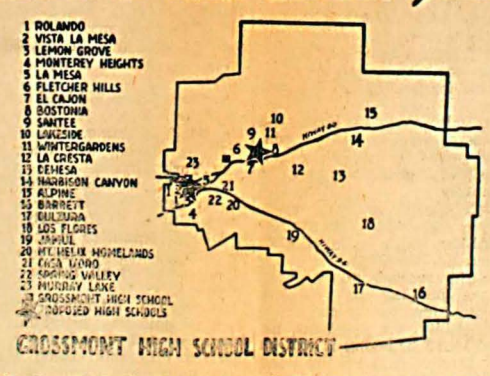
Kenneth Perkins presided as master or ceremonies and N. C. Valdez, magician was, generous with his entertainment.

All of the business houses of Lemon Grove, with but few exceptions, made liberal donations, either of food, prizes or merchandise for the booths. The appreciation of all who are concerned in the welfare of the school can be shown best to these Lemon Grove business people by trading at home with them.

The officers of the three PTA groups and the teachers and staffs of the three schools wish to express their appreciation for the work and co-operation of all parents, other individuals and organizations who contributed to the success of the carnival. This is a community service of great value and are happy to make the school facilities available for such a worthy project. While it is estimated that over 3000 children had a good time celebrating Halloween, there were few acts of vandalism.

A list of those who worked in the booths will be publisheb next week.

Grossmont Plans Two New Schools to Meet Student Growth



The Grossmont Board proposes to build two schools by 1956 when there will be 5200 students enrolled. Since the state program is definitely a minimum building program, only essential classrooms and cafeteria facilities will be built at this time.

The cost of the bond issue to local voters will be an average of 20 cents increase in the bond rate over a 20 year period. This would be equivalent of $10 a year.

Proposition 1 puts a ceiling of 40 cents on local property taxes for high school bonds. The building program:

1: Will provide a better educational program,

2 Will reduce transportation costs materially,

3 Will lead to increased community use of school facilities since the two new schools will be located in densely populated areas,

4 Will eliminate half-day sessions which have reduced the educational efficiency of programs by as much as 40% in some districts,

5 Will reduce over-crowding in California schools.

6 Will move classes out of substandard and unsafe quarters.

7 Will regain the reputation for good schools in this area.

Through Proposition 1, the taxpayers of this district have an opportunity to provide our children with full day sessions and modern equipment and to transfer a portion of the cost from the local property tax to the State. Citizens are urged to consider the issue carefully since by their vote on November 8 they will decide the quality of educational program they wish for the children of this area.

Elections for school bonds will be held at all of the school election precincts because school district boundaries do not coincide with the general election precinct boundaries. Therefore, a voter must vote in two places next Tuesday — at his general election precinct and at his school district precinct. To vote in only one place means loss of your vote. Lakeside, Lemon Grove and La Mesa school districts will vote on both elementary and high school bonds at their elementary schools. All other elementary school district precincts will vote only on the high school issue.

SEWING MACHINES NEEDED

Anyone having a treadle type sewing machine, which they do not use, will be doing the sewing class at Lemon Grove a great favor by loaning or selling it to the school. More sewing machines are needed. Call either H6-6951 or H6.5209.

NEW BARBER

L. H. Gratton, of El Cajon, is the new barber at Skaggs and Davenports Barber shop. Mr. Davenport suffered a stroke recently and will not be at the shop for some time. His many friends wish him a speedy recovery.

Wheelercade of 49 a Lively Variety

The Wheelercade of '49 will be presented as a variety show by the Wheel dancers of the Indoor Sports of San Diego at Hoover High School on November 18 at 8 p.m. with Alton Aulger, manager, and Maurine Aulger, director.

Mrs. A. J. Roberts, 8351 Imperial avenue, a local member of the Indoor Sports, will be on the Lindley Drug corner from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on November 11 to sell tickets. Mrs. Roberts would be happy to have folks desiring tickets to call her at H6-5920.

Andy Wins Deep Sea Fishing Prize

Erlen Anderson, Lemon Grove petroleum dealer, won the boat jackpot on the Helen V Wednesday with a 9½ lb. Ling Cod. Andy's prize catch also puts him ahead in this week's San Diego Bottom Fishing Derby. Other Lemon Grove residents aboard the Helen V included W. L. McQueen, Cadillac Jones, Bob Brownie and K. P. Taylor.

CHOIR HAS PARTY

All children interested in joining the Congregational Jr. Choir are asked to do so within the next week. After this week the membership will be closed and a waiting list formed. Mrs. Grace Toomire, the director, assisted by Mrs. Robert Hemsley, gave a party in Friendship Hall for members who are Rosemary Blalock, Judy Philps, Arvis Reed, Gerald Rice, Robert Ellis, James Richardson, Bobby Hemsley, Celeste Loustalet, Carol Rice, Martha McGuire, Linda Denlinger, Doris Courtney, Lois Lee, Kay Kish, Gary Baumgardener and Barbara Koopman and Gale Meador.

MONTEREY HEIGHTS P.T.A.

Last Thursday evening, the first regular meeting of the Monterey Heights School P.T.A. was held in the kindergarten room. Mrs. Thomas Best, the president, conducted the meeting. Speakers were Rev. Dan Apra and and Mr. and Mrs. Byron Netzley. Refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held, Thursday November 10, 7:30 p.m. in the kindergarten room of the Monterey Heights School at which a panel discussion by the sixth grade will highlight the meeting.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Observing their first wedding anniversary on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Lower, 2531 Bonita street, presided at a nicely appointed family dinner party and also honored Mrs. Lower's son, Frank Mighetto on his birthday anniversary. Others included were Mr. and Mrs. Pete Mighetteo and children, Verle and Buddy, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Miller and sons, Don and Jay, of San Diego, and Mrs. Elizabeth Lower of Colorado.

1869 MASSACRE SURVIVOR

While at Kanab, Utah, Universal-International's Technicolor Calamity Jane and Sam Bass had as a bit player the only living survivor of the 1869 Indian massacre at Fort Kanab. Co-starring Yvonee De Carlo and Howard Duff, the film opens at the Grove Theatre, Tuesday.

Cloyed in Final Appeal to Voters

"The special interests are out to get me in this election, but I won't be called off," said Ralph R. Cloyed, candidate for 80th district assemblyman in the November 8 election, before a County Farm Bureau meeting.

Cloyed stated that he was being "burned in effigy" before every meeting of the "ham 'n eggers who seek to continue their private pension racket by defeating Proposition 2."

Cloyer scorned the "easy path" that his "weak-kneed" opponents had taken on propositions 1 and 2, one of whom has come out openly against these propositions, and the other two have avoided the issues.

"Up to now, my opponents have been mainly talking about

Lutheran Church to be Officially Organized Sunday

The Lutheran Church of Lemon Grove, which meets in the Adventist Church, will be officially organized with an appropriate service at 10:45 a. m. Twenty families will be received as charter members

The new church originated when the National Lutheran Council alloted the Lemon Grove field to the Evangelical Lutheran Church. Work began under Rev. P. N. Oklevik, who conducted services beginning May 15 of this year. A call was extended to the Rev. W. LeRoy Elster of Botineau, N. Dak. to come and serve as the permanent pastor and he arrived September 15 to take up the work. Since then the congregation's constitution has been adopted and the congregation incorporated under the California laws. A $35,000 loan is to be made to the congrgation for the purpose of buying a building site, parsonage and first unit of a church.

Rev. Elster will speak on the history of the Church: A Look into the Past and Future.

An unusual service was conducted at Our Savior's Lutheran Church, San Diego, Sunday evening, at which time seven families were released and transferred to Lemon Grove Church. They were sent forth with blessings. Pastor Towe spoke words of farewell and encouragement.

Pastor Elster, in accepting the members expressed thanks and appreciation.

The transferred families are those of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Hanson, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Duea, Mrs. Pauline Wick, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Selvig, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Brandal, Mr. and Mrs. E. Tormondsen, Mrs. A. Boacher and Miss Alma Olson.

Additional members to be received into Charter membership will be the families of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Antwell, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tormondsen, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Volby, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Mueller, Mrs. L. Van Wagner, Mr. and Mrs. P. Svalstad, Mr. and Mrs. C. Waterman, Mr. and Mrs. S. Hagen, Dr. and Mrs. O. Schlicht, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Liebig, Dr. and Mrs. Donald Johnson, Mrs. John Klemper, Miss Phoebe Reed and Miss C. Day.

The day will be climaxed with a fellowship dinner and program at 6 p. m. at the Forward clubhouse.

Reprint From Review Goes to Bank Stockholders

Reprint of the story on the 1000th customer at the Lemon Grove branch of the First National Trust and Savings Bank was inclosed with the quarterly dividend sent to the stockholders of the institution November 1.

The story appeared in the Review September 29, telling of the opening of the 1000th account at the local branch by Harold B. Johnson of this community.

Reprints of the story were printed in this office and sent out by the bank. Each quarterly letter contains one or more inclosures of interest to the stockholders. The Review reprint was the only one mailed with the 1949 third quarter letter.

SCHOOL NEWS

Girls in the homemaking class of Lemon Grove Junior High have produced some lovely needlework this fall, under the direction of Mrs. Evelyn Whalen. The group made a lovely wool afghan of variegated colors which will be donated to some local charity at Christmastime.

The girls recently finished pot holders, which will make lovely gifts. They have also made aprons, dresser scarfs, embroidered towels and knitted scarfs and caps.

However, this class is greatly handicapped by the lack of sewing machines. Because of increased enrollment, the school district is at present unable to provide machines for the classes. The P.T.A. donated $50.00 to the homemaking class, and with this money the girls are hoping to secure more machines. This would greatly increase the experiences and efficiency of the classes.

It would be appreciated if any who can assist the girls in getting some treadle machines call H6.6951 or H6.5209.

Vista La Mesa School newspaper made its first appearance with a five-page Halloween edition. Edited by the sixth graders under the guidance of Mrs. Hazel Schwalm, the staff welcomes contributions from students anywhere in the school.

Ethel Calderwood is president of the sixth grade; Robert Burgee vice president; Sonja Friederichsen, secretary, and Jimmy Gerald, librarian.

The students of the school are hard at work on their various social living projects and studies. In some grades they are studying about the Navajo Indians; others have large unusual rock collections; some students have learned about fire prevention, and still other grades have completed units on transportation.

Mrs. Dorothy Babington's fourth grade at Monterey Heights School won the coveted room vase for the best parent attendance at the October PTA meeting.

SCIENCE CLASS VISITS NURSERY

The science classes of the Lemon Grove Junior High School furthered their study and activity in the field of agriculture on Friday, when Eldon Goodall, science teacher at junior high sponsored a field trip to Hunter's Nursery and the Japanese gardens in Spring Valley. The group enjoyed many interesting features of the outing. At the nursery there were many flowers, shrubs and trees, which the students have been studying about and trees this semester. There were rows and rows of celery at the Japanese gardens. When the group arrived, they watched the irrigation of the gardens.

Because they were Mr. Goodall's classes, Mrs. Helen Goodall drove the bus to take the group. Students from the seventn and eighth grades making the trip were Roger Conlee, Alice Lee, Margaret Schleif, George Tsongas, Jimmy Hurst, Shirley Logan, Douglas Schleif, Sammy Olsen, Judy Phillips, Gary Hauft, Ona Steinhoff, Patricia Pister, Margaret Welch and Joan Lewis.

THIRD GRADES VISIT TRAINS

On Tuesday of last week, Mrs. Lois Richie and Mrs. Marie Adams took their third grade classes to see the freight train as it passed through Lemon Grove. Arrangements had been made with the San Diego & Arizona Eastern Railroad to have the train stop so that the children could be shown the interior of the caboose and the engineer's cab. For many of the children, this was the first experience of being on a train.

Since the social science work for third grades includes a study of transportation, it is fortunate that material at hand can be utilized in the enrichment of the school program. Teachers wish to thank the Patrol boys who assisted on the trip, as well as Mr. McKee from the Railroad, who made the arrangement and conducted the tour.

The second grade (afternoon) at Monterey Heights School has been studying community helpers with emphasis on firemen. To learn more about the fireman, they visited Fire Station No. 10 in San Diego one day last week. They were accompanied by their teacher, Mrs. Fern Bowen and the following mothers: Mesdames Nathaniel Bemis, Ned Gardner, Chas. Tolbert, Kenneth Priest, Gerald Richardson and Jesse Mitchell, and Mrs. Schmidt who drove the school bus. The children were very interested in seeing how the fire alarms came in, the hook and ladder truck, pumper truck and various phases of the firemen's work. A fireman slid down the pole, climbed an aerial ladder and made a jump into a life net for the children. They enjoyed the trip and gained valuable information and appreciation of the work of the fireman.

Letters To the Editor

Oct. 28, 1949

Letter to the readers:

A service which would be of considerable help to the residents of Lemon Grove, we believe, would be an arrangement whereby we could pay our telephone bills at our local bank or at the drug store where we now pay our water and gas bills.

The telephone company has such arrangements with community banks in the city of San Diego. When we lived in East San Diego, we paid our telephone bills at an East San Diego Bank.

The bank manager in Lemon Grove states that they would be very glad to collect our bills if the telephone company wished to make the arrangements.

With our family this would be a great help, as we have no business whatever to transact in La Mesa, and it is almost as difficult to manage to be in San Diego at the time when the telephone office is open.

It would be of interest to the local merchants to have a local payment office.

We have been informed by the telephone company that they will arrange for local payment of bills if enough residents indicate to them such a desire. The action of an organization would be the most effective in this matter. Would the Chamber of Commerce be interested in making the request?

Very truly,
Lois K. Richie

Democratic Paper Endorses Cloyed

(from Ramona Sentinel)

Three Republicans and one Democrat are on the November 8 ballot for the assembly, to fill the unexpired term of Howard Cramer (resigned).

The writer is not one who believes that all virtues reside in one party; and we would not support any candidate for the sole reason that he claims allegiance to the party which we usually (or sometimes) support.

It has not been our privilege to know the Democrat aspirant to this post, nor has he even attempted to communicate his views to the people of the Back Country; for that reason we cannot support him—for certainly we would, under no consideration, endorse any candidate for any office, until we were convinced that he had, at heart, the welfare of all of the people living within the district.

It has been our good fortune to meet and to know Ralph Cloyed and the other two Republicans whose names appear on the ballot; and we endorse, without reservation, the candidacy of Cloyed.

Ralph Cloyed is not a politician; he is a dairyman—and a successful one over a period of years. He knows the dairyman's problems and the problems of the small rancher and farmer; so the Back Country would receive adequate and sympathetic representation with Cloyed in Sacramento.

Also, being a successful dairyman, he has proven himself to be a sound businessman; and since all businessmen know that the requisite for success is economy, the electorate is assured that he will stand for economy in all affairs of State.

Mr. Cloyed does not evade questions, nor does he hedge. He says what he thinks—even though it may lose him votes. He has expressed himself on the various propositions to come before the voters at this election at every opportunity, while other Republican candidates are evasive and refuse to state their opinions publicly, under the lame excuse that the issues in question will be decided by the voters—not by the Assembly. Even so, haven't the voters a right to know how they stand? Are they afraid to say how they, themselves are going to vote on the propositions?

Just remember this: because a candidate refuses to state his position on any issue is no reason for you to assume that he shares your views.

No, we'll take a forthright man, even though we may differ from him on certain issues in preference to one who seeks to hide his opinions for fear of losing a few votes.

And Ralph Cloyed is honest—he is sincere—and he will be concerned with the welfare of all of the 80th District—not just one community.

Ralph Cloyed is being sponsored by the Republican Central Committee, which is, in part, financing his campaign.

For the reasons given above we are jumping the political fence to support him—convinced of his ability, his judgment, his honesty, and believing it will be to the interest of the entire Back Country to support him.

Democrats and Republicans this is strictly a nonpartisan election. No matter what your politics, this is one time you may vote for the man. And we sincerely believe that Ramona, Julian, Santa Ysabel, and the entire Back Country will greatly benefit in the election of Ralph R. Cloyed.

Girl Scout News

With a large crowd of parents and friends present, Scouts' Own was held Sunday October 30, on Mt. Helix. The invocation was given by Rev. C. Boone Saddler, pastor of St, Andrews Episcopal Church of La Mesa, followed by the flag ceremoney. Scout songs were sang. The Rev. David R. McKibbon of Rolando Methodist Church, gave an interesting talk on ideals of the Brownie and Girl Scout Promises. The Rev. James Andrewson, St. Mary's Catholic Church, El Cajon, recited the benediction. The ceremony closed with the singing of taps.

Troop 32 elected as officers, Joanna Correll, president; Charlene Stoney, secretary; Nancy Stover, treasurer. Cookies were served by Claudette Cheney. All the girls have uniforms and attended Scout's Own.

Mrs. Chesser substituted for Mrs. H. M. Fisher at the last meeting of Troop 69. Three girls from this troop, Petty Reid, Ava Winkler and Marilyn Marriot recited Scout laws, 8, 9, 10, at Scout's Own. Four girls from this troop will help serve at the Lion's Club dinner this evening. Members of the Neighborhood Club will cook the meal.

Girl Scout troop, Mrs. L. O. Reams leader, had a weiner roast at the home of the leader Saturday. This week they will make favors for the November 3rd dinner of their sponsors, the Lion's Club.

Mrs. Roy Tormondsen was ill last week so her trooop could not meet.

Mrs. John Kish will take over leadership of troop 2, replacing Mrs. M. E. Day. Mrs. Ervin Johnston will be leader of troop 228.

Brownie troop under the leadership of Mrs. Guy Winton, held an investure last Tuesday, for Jean Bice, Madilyn Peckstine, Silvia Sittorus, Sandra Krell and Janice Warden. Mrs. Winton and some of her troop attended Scout's Own. The troop had a combined birthday and Halloween party Tuesday.

Girl Scout Troop, Mrs. J. A. Pickens leader, had a Halloween party last Wednesday. Games were played and prizes were given to the winners. A very nice lunch was enjoyed. The girls made their own table setting. Guests were Joyce Hayman and Gary Van Wagoner.

Girl Scouts of all troops are invited to join a drill team to be directed by Mrs. Roy Tormondsen. Everyone interested is to meet back of the Junior High School at 10 a. m. sharp on Saturday.

Brownie Troop 248 held a farewell party for its leader at last Thursday's meeting. Mrs. O. J. Brett is leaving this week for New York City.

Troop 79, welcomed Mrs. Ivy Bunch back as co-leader of the troop. Mrs. Doris Heatherly, who will be a committee mother was a guest. It was decided to serve refreshments at all future troop meetings.

Troop 136 attended Scout's Own in uniform, marching in formation and carrying the American flag and troop flag. Both flags were given to the troop by Mrs. Evelyn Sloan of Spring Valley.

economy in State government. Everyone likes economy in government; a candidate would never lose votes on that issue. but actions always speak louder than words. I have been carrying on the fight alone."

Cloyed then asked, "How can anyone talk about economy in government while at the same time refuse to endorse Proposition 2 , , , the greatest economy measure in the history of the State. That doesn't make sense, unless you are a politician trying to play both sides against the middle in order to win a few votes."

Cloyed stated that his efforts on behalf of these two vital propositions have been encouraged by the support of Democrats and Republicans, and that a "yes" vote on Propositions 1 and 2 transcends all party lines. He pointed out that McLain's pension scheme has already cost the taxpayers of this state over 90 million dollars, and that a legislative auditor's report shows that the state is liable to be bankrupt within another year, unless Proposition 2 is passed.

"The line-up of the various candidates' stands looks fishy to me," said Cloyed. "Two of them refuse to take a stand, and the other is on the side of McLain and his gang."

"Everyone knows that the big interests, represented by lobbyist Art Samish and George McLain, control many an assemblyman in Sacramento, They have their own candidates running in this election. Between fighting Samish, McLain and their candidates, I have my work cut out for me."

"It is worth a lot of money to George McLain to defeat Proposition 2, for if it passes he will no longer be able to control State pension funds. He is the most powerful factor in this election. Money talks, but not to me," stated Cloyed. "I am of independent means and am in a position to fight for good government whenever and wherever I see fit."

"How could I face the children of the 80th District if I didn't stand up and fight for the badly needed school buildings of Proposition 1! How could I represent the people of my district if I went to Sacramento a tool of the special interests such as Samish and McLain!" concluded Cloyed.

The voters of the 80th Assembly District are going to elect an assemblyman next Tuesday. There are four candidates in the race—three Republican and one Democrat. The high man wins. Only one candidate has been asking for the votes of the Lemon Grove people, so we are to presume that the other three care nothing about this area of the 80th Assembly District. One candidate, however, has been campaigning vigorously in Lemon Grove and Spring Valley, and that is Ralph R. Cloyed, retired dairyman of Chula Vista. Cloyed has the qualifications to make him a good assemblyman. He is forthright, fearless and does not have to depend on the salary that goes with the job. He has not evaded a single issue in the campaign: nor has he run on a platform of more water for California, and lower taxes. There can be no arguments with candidates who run on those platforms. Everybody knows we need water, and we all want lower taxes; but there are issues in this campaign that go far deeper than either one of the foregoing. Cloyed stands for Proposition 1, which if passed, means more class rooms for the school children. And he stands for Proposition 2, which means taking the California pension law out of the hands of the McLain-Williams clique and putting it where it belongs — in the hands of the elected representatives of the people. Mrs. Williams' name is the only one appearing in the California Constitution. If this continues, it will not be long until every official will personally be frozen into the Constitution; then there will be no longer need to hold elections in this State. Then the people will be nothing but vassals of the Constitution. In another column of today's Review, we reprint an editorial from the Ramona Sentinel, a Democratic newspaper endorsing Ralph R. Cloyed. The publisher of the Sentinel has lived in the 80th District a long time and he knows San Diego county and its citizens better than we do, so we are reprinting his editorial for the benefit of any readers who may as yet be undecided as to how they are going to vote next Tuesday.

Over a century ago, the cry of "Gold!" brought excited fortune-hunters by the thousands—across the plains, around the Horn, through the Isthmus, from all over the world to California's Mother Lode. Again, in the late Nineties, the magic word started a mad rush for the mines of the snowbound Klondike country.

Today, a rich gold strike is reported along the banks of the Yukon near a town named, in the best gold-rush tradition, Fishwheel. Modern Argonauts are converging on the mining camp by plane and jeep and taxicab. Saloons and gambling halls are springing up, just like in a Mae West movie.

Nevertheless, from all accounts, the present day gold-rush seems to be pretty much of a minor league affair. Most of us are content to sit at home and read about it, instead of setting off post-haste for the frozen North. After all, who wants to risk the fate of Dan McGrew just to bring back some yellow metal that has to be buried under Fort Knox?

Demagogues have always preached against a political party and for "the best man." The man, when he is elected on a platform of his own making and choosing, is responsible to no one (Huey Long being an illustration.) They do not want to be hampered by party pledges, but to do as they please, changing their views from day to day, on the plea that they are keeping up with the changing times. This fad, unfortunately has been growing and has been responsible for the "feuhrers" in Europe and so-called "great leaders" in America. It is time we got back to the party system and placed the responsibility for good government where it belongs. You cannot punish a "great leader" when things go wrong—the machine he has built up won't permit it. But the voters can punish a political party and it often has been done in the United States—prior to the New Deal.

An imporotant issue that should not be overlooked by the voters next Tuesday is the local school bond election. To vote on this, the voters must go to the Lemon Grove School on School lane. There is only one polling place for the local bond election. All other issues will be decided at the regular polling places in Lemon Grove, of which there are seven.

Secretary of Defense Johnson says Adm. Denfield lacked the qualifications for his job as Chief of Naval Operations. Who is to decide Johnson's qualifications?

Political Parade

CLEM WHITAKER, Jr.

Long the apples of indulgent parents' eyes, the Army, Navy and Air Force seem incapable of comprehending that the day of reckoning is drawing nigh — that the public is grateful for a victory won but unwilling to maintain a gigantic war machine in time of peace at the expense of needlessly mortgaging itself for generations to come.

Thus, like three pampered brats scrapping for mother's attenion, the various branches of the Armed Forces are flailing away, one at the other, each determined to secure a bigger slice of the appropriation pie. It's a pie, by the way, that represents more than one third of all the monies spent by the Federal Government.

Naval spokesmen, in the best Gilbert and Sullivan tradition, tell the Nation that more carriers Navy planes—and a bigger Navy —are a must for national security. But, they plead, the Army and the Air Force are getting the money that's needed for the Navy. Not only that, the Navy says, the Air Force B.36 super bombers are obsolete, no good, vulnerable to enemy attack and shouldn't be built. Instead, it is inferred, the Navy should be given some of the funds now being expended for B-36's.

Not to be outdone, officers of the traditionally cocky Air Force contend that perhaps the B-36 isn't absolutely invulnerable, but then, neither was the famed B-17 of World War II immune from enemy attack and it did a job The Navy gold braid has paraded before Congress for the past 10 years to knock air power, the greater Air Force enthusiasts claim. And it is deplorable that they are now endangering the national security by informing all and sundry of the way the military believes the United States should be defended.

Meantime, in another brannigan, the Army and the Marines are locked in dispute over who should conduct the amphibious landings—and who should get more money.

About the only factor which the public can be sure is that the inter-service "unification" war certainly does not bode well for the national security, no matter who is technically right about the comparitive value of sea power over air power or land power.

Almost all will agree that America needs a good defense force — and that means a good Army, Navy and Air Force.

But the nation can only afford so much—and the breaking point already has been reached.

Perhaps, as one observer has pointed out, all three branches of the Armed Forces are too pampered. Maybe what is needed is to make them live within a peacetime budget, rather than the present near war level. In any event, the three-ringed "unification" circus now going on in Washington is a national disgrace, and the sooner heads are knocked together and all made to work for the welfare of the Nation, the better off the country will be.

THE CUCKOO

Cuckoo, Cuckoo, Cuck-oo —and immediately you see a tiny carved wooden bird poking its head from a tiny window just below the face of one of those little Swiss clocks. It calls the hour and springs back into the darkness for another 30 minutes. To begin with, children, I want to set you right about the Cuckoo. The English Cuckoo does call its own name and it does lay its egg in other birds' nests; but not our American Cuckoo. Familiarly it has been called Chow Chow, Rain Dove, Storm Crow and Rain Crow; more often the last because of its monotonous, continuous call of kew, kow-kow before rain tells us that wet weather is coming.

The Cuckoo is, without exception, the Farmers' best friend. One pair of Cuckoos is worth more than a hundred other birds because they live almost entirely on tent-caterpillars, those awful hairy and sharp-spined ones that other birds will not touch. They also like canker-worms, butterflies, grasshoppers, beetles, cicadas and snails, and to take the bad taste out of the mouth, a nice, fuzzy mulberry or two makes a favorite dessert; perhaps because mulberries look so much like their favorite caterpillars. Think of 30 destructive, greedy caterpillars every hour of the day; double that when hungry babies are to be fed. Then ask Farmer Brown who would he hire without pay and who asked only protection, a drink of water, a place to bathe for the right to live and serve him? And caterpillars move in vast armies—armies of destruction,

Mr. and Mrs. Cuckoo are restless creatures and with perfect ease do they glide through the densest thickets with a swift, noiseless flight. You have heard it is said that "good children should be seen but not heard." Cuckoos are just the opposite. They are always heard but seldom seen. And their dress protects them, too, soft subdued colors in quiet Quaker shades slightly tinged with bronze above; below a grayish white bill stout and strong and curved and slightly flattened at the base; tail long and wedge shape with conspicuous white thumb marks at the tip of each feather. The feet are small and weak because they spend so little time on the ground and the long pointed wings add grace to this 12 inches of Cuckoo beauty.

Mr. Cuckoo isn't much of a home man and Mrs. Cuckoo is a decidedly careless housekeeper. Her nest is much like the Mourning Doves—a mere platform of sticks, so flat on top an egg often rolls to the ground. The three to five nile or pale greenish glue eggs are not all hatched at once. In 14 days the babies peck their way into the world, and oh', such babies—ugly, black, greasy looking. When the quills sprout through they look like wee porcupines. But just the same Mother Cuckoo loves her ugly ducklings. You dare to get close to her nest and she will attack you in no uncertain manner. Often she will come out to meet you and make believe she is lame or hurt all the time leading you away from her precious home. Occasionally Mrs. Cuckoo will lay an egg in the nest of another bird, but she doesn't make a common practice of it. She especially likes the dense willow thickets and the shrubbery bordering country roads. Sometimes Mr. Cuckoo, with eight or 10 of his fellows, will congregate during the mating season and give a real Cuckoo concert.

To know all about the home life and habits of the English Cuckoo, you have but to read English poetry so filled is it with lovely verses to this interesting bird. But our American poets have written very few inspired lines to this wonderful benefactor and true friend of mankind. Perhaps because the Cuckoo is so shy and retiring and lives such a secluded, useful life that to really become better acquainted with it you must needs live closer to me—for Mother Nature is very chary of her secrets and her children.

FROM THE NEWS CIRCUIT

JAMES DORAIS

For a long, long time Hollywood was singing the blues.

But latest reports from the Film Capital are in glorious Technicolor. Rumors that the cinema industry had been dying on Hollywood and Vine, it seems, are grossly exaggerated.

Employment reached a low point early in the year when statistics showed that the number of production workers gainfully employed in making films had been cut in half. Today, employment is on the increase.

More films will be completed this year than the year before and the year before that. Producers have found that Grade A films can be made for far less cost than used to be considered respectable.

Movie companies have found that by making pictures abroad they can offset the loss of foreign business brought about by currency controls. At home, theater attendance, after a two year slump, is showing a substantial rise.

One of the major causes of the Hollywood jitters was the competitive threat of television. Now the movies are beginning to look upon the new medium as an ally.

To many people, television may be merely, as radio comedian Bob Hope quipped, "smog with knobs." Nevertheless, there are nearly 4 million sets in use today. In Los Angeles the ratio has been figured at one to every nine families.

The cinema moguls feared that as people bought television sets, they would stay away from the movies in droves. They worried over the prospects for movie houses, forced to compete with home television sets bought on the new coin-operating installment plan. under which an evening's entertainment can be furnished for a quarter—the quarter to apply on the purchase price of the set.

But they've found that television set owners still go to the movies. After Hopalong Cassidy galloped into television , Hopalong Cassidy westerns became bigger box office than ever.

The entertainment medium that really will suffer from the growth of television, the movie industry now gleefully believes is radio.

Hollywood believes. too, that television in order to sell itself to sponsors, will have to replace expensive "live" shows with film. Already, a sizable portion of the studios' facilities are devoted to TV production. Television is no longer seen as a bogey but a boon.

It all adds up to comforting news to California. Hollywood is California's child—sometimes errant, often spoiled, but California's own. and it's good to know she hasn't fallen permanently on evil days

REVIEW SHORT SHORT STORY

GREAT MAN

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

3-Minute Fiction

IF PROFESSOR AARON CHESwick was famous he was not aware of this fact. He was too busy with his experiments in the field of chemistry, with teaching the undergraduates of Mapleridge College the rudiments of elementary science, with writing papers and books in which he set forth (in an almost apologetic style) the results of his experiments, and with reading avidly the works of such great scientists as Mons. Oliver Davillier and Senor Alfredo Valle Indan, both of whom had long ago won his respect and admiration.

He was an unpretentious looking little man, this Professor Cheswick, with pale blue eyes and horn-rimmed glasses and a pasty complexion. He wasn't one to attract attention or to assert himself. He went about with a perpetual far-away look in his eyes.

There came a time when a problem presented itself that challenged his skill and knowledge. He labored over it for days. The days became weeks and the weeks months. At last, worn and haggard, the little man was ready to admit defeat.

Time after time he returned to it, only to find himself defeated. He visited every library within miles, read every book by Davillier and Indan, as well as other great scientists that was available, but without finding the answer.

In the end Profesor Cheswick had an idea. It was summer. He needed a vacation. Why not take a month off, visit Europe and perhaps call on Davillier and Indan and ask them personally to clear up the matter that so burdened his mind?

A week later Professor Cheswick sailed for France. The little school teacher was a lonely figure. He struck up a few acquaintances. He wasn't the type to attract people. But he enjoyed the trip. This was something he had never done before.

He was glad when the boat docked. Eagerly he looked ahead to his meeting with Mons. Davillier.

But alas! The next day Professor Cheswick learned that Mons. Davillier had gone to America for his summer holiday and was not expected to return for another month.

The little scientist was depressed and disappointed. His time was short. Madrid, where lived Senor Indan was a long way off. Yet it could be reached, he thought suddenly and excitedly, by plane in a very short while.

HE WAS DELIGHTED to learn that Senor Indan was in Madrid. Yes, it was difficult to obtain an interview with the great man. He was constantly being pressed for interviews. What was it the American wanted to see him about? A problem? Ah, yes, Senor Indan was requested to solve so many problems. It was very, very doubtful if he would grant an interview for such a slight matter. However, if the American would care to take his chances, Senor Indan was to appear at a reception on Tuesday night. Possibly there would be an opportunity to ask his question . . .

Professor Cheswick attended the reception. He stood in line for hours, a quiet, unassuming, unimportant looking little man, waiting for his chance to speak to the great Senor Indan. It came at last. At last the Mapleridge school teacher and scientist stood before the man he respected more than anyone else in the world.

He was so overcome by awe that for a moment he just stared. Senor Indan frowned impatiently and Professor Cheswick found his voice. He stated his question. The Senor's brows arched in surprise.

"An unusual question, Senor," he said. "Frankly, I cannot answer it. There is only one man in the world with enough knowledge and learning to find the answer. He is one of your own countrymen. My good friend Mons. Davillier is at this moment in America seeking an interview with this wizard whom the whole scientific world respects and admires, yet who is so absorbed in his work that it is difficult to persuade him to appear in public. I refer to Professor Aaron Cheswick of Mapleridge college."

REVIEW SHORT SHORT STORY

BEST ALIBI

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

MAX SANDERS' home had been robbed of jewels valued at $50,000. The jewels were kept in a wall safe behind a picture in Max's study, which was located on the second floor of his Beverly Hills home.

Inspector Ray Beatty was assigned to the case. Leo MacDougal, a police officer, who had been summoned from his beat, showed Inspector Beatty the evidence that had thus far been discovered.

3-Minute Fiction

First there was a ladder placed against a window that opened into a second floor hall. This window had been discovered open.

Inspector Beatty told MacDougal to summon all the servants. Then he questioned them. They all had good excuses. Sid Firbush, a secretary, had spent the night at the movies with a friend. Edwards, the butler, had read in his room until Mr. and Mrs. Sanders returned from a party, when he admitted them.

It was right after that, that Mrs. Sanders went to the safe to replace the jewels she had worn, and found the others gone.

Martha Greene, the housekeeper, had been in her room all evening. Her room was located on the second floor. She had gone down to the kitchen about 10 o'clock for a bite to eat and found Viola Matson, the maid, there with her boy friend. Returning, Martha had passed Edwards' room and seen Edwards sitting by his table, reading.

"The robbery was committed before you placed the ladder there."

INSPECTOR BEATTY dismissed the servants and went back to the study. He examined every inch of it. Then he went into the hall and examined that. He also examined the window and the ladder and the ground below the window. It had rained a little the night before and he found some footprints beside the ladder. They looked like men's footprints.

Inspector Beatty sought out Sid Firbush. He asked the secretary if Max Sanders held business conferences in his study. Firbush said that he did.

"The chances are, then, that he's had occasion to open the safe when others were present?"

"It's quite likely."

"I want as complete a list as you can make me of all the people you've known to be in the study during the past month."

Inspector Beatty left Sid Firbush making out the list, summoned MacDougal and went down the hall. He entered one door after the next, first knocking to make sure the room was empty. Presently he returned to the hall, bearing a pair of shoes.

Carrying the shoes he returned to the study and asked Firbush if they were his shoes.

"Why, yes,' said Firbush. "Why? Where did you get them?"

"Out of your closet. I searched the closets of all the servants till I found a pair of shoes with some mud on the soles. It was you who committed the robbery."

"You're crazy. That's a cock-eyed theory. The robber came up the ladder."

"No," said Inspector Beatty, "that's only what you expected us to believe. That's why you put the ladder there and left the window open. The robbery was committed before you placed the ladder there."

"How do you know that? You can't prove it."

"I won't have to. What I can prove is that no one came up the ladder. It rained last night. There was mud. There's mud on your shoes. The shoes fit the footprints at the foot of the ladder. Yet there is no mud at all on the rungs of the ladder. If there had been I would have probably been fooled and not been sure that some one inside committed the theft. Besides you had the best alibi. I checked with the man with whom you said you attended the movie. He broke down and confessed everything."

MacDougal was amazed. Afterwards he said to Beatty: "I didn't know you checked with Firbush's friend. When did that happen?"

"It didn't," said Beatty.

Education Week to be Observed

Making Democracy work is the theme selected for American Education Week, which will be observed througout the nation from November 6 to November 12. Today our faith in Democracy is greater than ever, despite the tremendous problems which confront the world, and to retain this great faith, the public schools of our nation play an ever-increasing, significant role.

The National Conference of Parents and Teachers, with the American Legion and the United States Office of Education, sponsor the affair this week, along with San Diego Educational Committee. They will encourage Parents and patrons of the schools to visit the classrooms and teachers, and to discuss and help solve those problems which confront us all. In our own district here in Lemon Grove, due to abnormal growth, shortages of classrooms and supplies, and—greatest of all, lack of funds, the schools are faced with a grave problem, and the aid of the public is the only solution. If our citizens do not understand and realize the present conditions in the school district, they will not fully appreciate the necessity for a "Yes" vote on Proposition 1 next Tuesday.

If your main interests are in Lemon Grove school, visit the classes on Tuesday. You will be there voting for the bond issue; why not call on some members of the staff and visit some classrooms? While no special program has been prepared for visitors, all of the teachers are holding open house during the entire day.

At Monterey Heights School, Arthur Thomas, principal, has announced that parents have been invited to sit in on regular classwork. Here also there will be no special demonstrations; it will be an opportunity for parents too see the class in part of its normal activity.

At the Vista La Mesa School, special day has been set aside for the observations. Teachers will notify parents which day special programs may be given in individual classrooms, but the patrons of the school are cordially invited to visit at any time. Thiis was announced this week by Ben Schei, principal of the Vista La Mesa School.

Equestrian Activities in and Around Lemon Grove

By MARGE ELLISON

The annual Silvergate horse carnival, at the Balboa Park Riding Arena last Friday evening far surpassed the fun shows of previous years. It was a hilarious and clever exhibtion of gruesome, comical and ingenious events, including wee youngsters, half-grown and over-grown youngters filled with the juvenile spirit. Some of those over-grown folks had passed the 60 year mark but, did they have fun! One in particular, Chris Anderson of Mission Valley, got a trifle confused in donning ruffled petticoats, bloomers and high-top shoes, and laced his 24-inch corset over the whole outfit and wore it on the outside. The entire show was a fine demonstration of good sportsmanship among the riders and the Silvergate members, who were all in costume. All the costumes rated high, being from the ridiculous to the sublime.

At the Iona Horse Club Halloween fun show last Sunday, there were more spooky characters participating in the events. The cleverest getup was Frank Fischl and his horse, Sandy, with dear old Sandy wearing a pair of Army shoes, overalls, suspenders and a straw hat. Pat McNeely, the little Indian girl on her Indian pony, made a clever pair. The youngest girl rider in the grand entry was Barbara Perry and the youngest boy, Jerry Lane. The oldest rider was Doc Gurney and the oldest woman was Sophia Jackson—and she's a good sport for admitting she had some of those other riders beat when it comes to age. The trophies for best silver went to Bert Marshall, Earl Allan and Leon Cazare. Earl Allen was showing for the first time his lovely new silver saddle and outfit. Frank Bettencourt and Kenneth Jackson received special awards. The trophy for fancy western dress went to Russell Leech; best western man's outfit went to Jake Hahn; best plain western girl's outfit to Eva Marie Immenschuh. There were seven exciting events in the morning and eight in the afternoon, including the Grand Entry. Three usherettes from the Rancho Drive-In were on hand to present some of the trophies in the grand entry. Results of the classes are as follows:

Joyce Van Zandt, winning two firsts and a third award won the greatest number of points for the morning show, with Norman McDonnell winning a first and two second awards. Norman also won the stake race in afternoon class; Kay Bouton took third in Western Pleasure class in the morning, but was judged first in the class in the afternoon. Donna Glardon took first in Western Pleasure and third in trail horse. Pat McNeely took to seconds, besides a special award in the grand entry. Another entry to receive two awards was Marilyn Parrish, second in foot race and third in Apple Dunking.

Awards in the afternoon show are as follows: Trail horse, Eva Marie Immenschuh, Dr. H. Gurney, Pat Sutner; Stake race: Norman McDonnell, Frank Bettencourt and Bob Farrell; Western Pleasure: Kay Bouton, Eva Marie Immenschuh, Jake Hahn; Pony Express Relay: Frank Bettencourt and Dorothy Lane, Rusty Hunter and Bob Farrell, Don Lupton and Frank Bettencourt; Musical Barrell: Virginia Parker, Eva Marie Immenschuh and Rusty Hunter; Ride and Pick-up: Carl Wilson and Rex Snodgrass, Frank Bettencourt and Bob Farrell, R. C. Duncan and Richard Contreras; Tin Can Race: Don Lupton, Ernie Nelson and Eva Marie Immenschuh.

Theosophical Bazaar in S. D.

Among the Lemon Grove Theosophists attending the 20th annual bazaar of Theosophical Lodge No. 1 which is being held today and Friday, in the Theosophical Center, 2772 Fourth avenue, San Diego, are Mr. and Mrs. William H. Lehman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles String, Mrs. May Dunn, A. J. Roberts, C. H. Shulte and Miss Ruth Schulte.

Outstanding feature of the sale will be an exhibit of oil and pastel paintings by local and out of town artists. A. J. Roberts of Imperial Avenue, Lemon Grove has contributed several lovely oil paintings. Other attractions will be a display of ceramics, gift tables, plastic kitchen articles, home-cooked foods, dolls and games, stationery, aprons, baskets and a garden department.

Dr. Charles J. Falk, assistant to the Superintendant of the San Diego City Schools and Secretary to the City Board of Education, will be the featured speaker at the Friday dinner to be held at 6 o'clock p.m. His topic will be "The Secret of Strength." A forum period will follow. Luncheon and dinner reservations are being taken by Mrs. Earle C. Hostler and Mrs. Edna Gourley. The public is cordially invited to attend.

THEOSOPHICAL STUDY

"Man's Seven-Fold Constitution" is the subject chosen for study and discussion by the Theosophical Study Group of Lemon Grove on Monday at 8 p. m. in the home of Ruth Schulte, 2850 Cypress stret. The subject was selected from Studies in Occult Philosophy by G. de Purucker.
